Gordon Ramsay

The heat is on again this summer as superstar chef Gordon Ramsay turns up the fire during the ninth season of the unscripted series HELL'S KITCHEN. The table is set for some intense competition as Ramsay once again lights a fire under a team of chefs with a series of challenges to see who has the hunger to win.

This season, the challenges will range from the cute and cuddly – the chefs cook a "mommy and me" meal for a room full of moms and toddlers – to the risqué and racy – they must make a meal with foods that are known aphrodisiacs. The winning teams will get to enjoy a private jet to Palm Springs, Indy-car racing or a yacht excursion, while the losing teams will be required to stock the kitchen, clean the dorm rooms or prep and work a raw seafood bar.

As the competition heats up, the teams will be sliced down until only two chefs are left to compete for the ultimate prize and fulfill their dreams of working in the culinary industry as the winner of HELL'S KITCHEN.

HELL'S KITCHEN is produced by ITV Studios America in association with A. Smith & Co. Productions. Arthur Smith, Kent Weed and Gordon Ramsay serve as executive producers.
